

2023 SURVEY OF CIT PROGRAMS IN NORTH CAROLINA

Division of Mental Health, Developmental Disabilities and Substance Use Services

RESULTS OF THE END OF YEAR 2023 SURVEY OF CIT PROGRAMS IN NORTH CAROLINA: A SUMMARY

Introduction

Since 2008, annual end-of-year surveys of North Carolina's Crisis Intervention Teams (CIT) have been conducted to measure progress in expanding CIT throughout our state. Respondents to the End of Year 2023 survey were asked to provide the names of law enforcement agencies participating in their local CIT program, the number of CIT law enforcement officers their program trained by December 31, 2023, the number of tele-communicators or dispatchers that received CIT training by that date, and others who had received CIT training.

Results

Our 2023 end-of-year survey of North Carolina's CIT programs yielded the following results:

- Total number of NC law enforcement officers CIT certified by 12/31/ 2023: 18,805
  - Number of NC law enforcement agencies participating in CIT in 2023: 231
  - Number of NC detention officers completing CIT training in 2023: 243
  - Total number of tele-communicators (dispatchers) CIT-trained by 12/31/2023: 1,855
  - Total number of probation / parole officers completing CIT training in 2023: 37
  - Total number of private security officers CIT-trained by 12/31/2023: 320
  - Total number of fire fighters, EMTs and paramedics CIT-trained by 12/31/2023: 2512
  - Total number of others<sup>1</sup> who have received CIT training by 12/31/2023: 1,723

An additional 1,423 CIT officers became CIT certified in calendar year 2023. There are approximately 18,680 police officers and 15,413 sheriff's deputies in North Carolina, for a total of 34,093 law enforcement officers in the state<sup>2</sup>. The reader should note that the total numbers of CIT officers trained does not consider attrition over time.<sup>3</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Others include magistrates, NC State Bureau of Investigation (SBI) officers, National Park Service officers, Port Authority police, community college staff, department of social services staff, hospital staff, peer specialists, domestic violence shelter staff, victim's assistance staff, LME board members, animal control officers, provost marshals, private security, and officers from police departments in neighboring states.

<sup>2</sup> Statistics obtained in 2023 from the North Carolina Dept. of Justice, Training and Standards Division, and include only full time, sworn officers and deputies. Note: Some individuals may be dually certified as a police officer, sheriff's deputy and/or detention deputies so the counts may not reflect distinct individuals.

<sup>3</sup> Data on CIT officers who have left their employment were unable to be obtained. Therefore, these data in this report does not reflect attrition among CIT officers and is almost certainly an overestimation of the actual numbers of CIT trained law enforcement employed in North Carolina.

CIT Programs in 2023

CIT training happened in almost all 68 counties in the state in 2023. Many counties have CIT teams in multiple jurisdictions in their counties. CIT Programs, which are programs in counties where CIT is fully integrated into a crisis response collaborative. Currently there are CIT programs in 31 counties in the state. This is a change from previous years. The change can be attributed to the increased number of CIT Coordinators who have a better understanding of the requirements of what constitutes a CIT program vs CIT team.

CIT in Corrections in North Carolina

CIT training is also being provided to correctional staff in our North Carolina state prison system. The CIT community curriculum has been adapted by mental health professionals working in our prison system to better fit the correctional environment, with the goal of providing CIT training to all its correctional staff. There are 9038 certified correctional officers employed in the North Carolina prison system<sup>6</sup>. In 2023, CIT programs associated with the LME-MCOs assisted the Department of Public Safety by providing CIT training to 243 corrections officers in jails and State detention centers in North Carolina.

Summary

The Covid-19 pandemic presented unique challenges for CIT programs and resulted in a marked reduction in CIT trainings offered in the previous two years. However, by early 2023, most CIT programs began to schedule and plan for in-person trainings to begin in the Spring and throughout the remainder of the calendar year. CIT coordinators worked to creatively develop safe processes and still maintain the fidelity of the CIT model, all while promoting social distancing, encouraging mask wearing, having hand sanitizer available.

As many communities and law enforcement agencies have felt the need for more CIT trained officers, MCOs are acting diligently to schedule CIT as often as possible. The demand for CIT will likely continue to increase as communities continue to see an increase in behavioral health and substance use needs.

The State CIT Advisory Committee continues to meet every other month with a strong attendance and representation from law enforcement, advocates/NAMI, MCOs, behavioral health providers, community colleges, and others who have a vested interest in CIT. The Committee is in partnership with NAMI North Carolina to host the 2024 State CIT Conference in February 2024. The Committee has developed a relationship with CIT International. In 2023, 20 CIT Coordinators attended a Certified CIT Train the Trainer course in the state paid for by DMHDDSAS. A NAMI Guilford County representative has been received as a Board member with CIT International and has been a co-facilitator of the Statewide Advisory Council throughout the calendar year. The outlook for CIT in North Carolina is strong. CIT has become an institution for the law enforcement community in North Carolina, and as a state supported initiative, it is the common goal to support and strengthen CIT programs across the state.
